DETAILED ACTION

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on April 20, 2005 has been entered.
2. Claims 11-40 are currently pending.

Specification

3. The specification is objected to for the reasons set forth in the Office action of July 1, 2004. Applicant has not replied to these objections in either of the responses filed December 16, 2004 or April 20, 2005.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

4. Claims 11-40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for treating inflammation, does not reasonably provide enablement for treating any other disorder. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to practice the invention commensurate in scope with these claims.

Art Unit: 1654

Undue experimentation would be required to practice the invention as claimed due to the quantity of experimentation necessary; limited amount of guidance and limited number of working examples in the specification; nature of the invention; state of the prior art; relative skill level of those in the art; predictability or unpredictability in the art; and breadth of the claims. In re Wands, 8 USPQ2d 1400, 1404 (Fed. Cir. 1988).

Applicant's claims are broadly drawn to administering a feverfew extract substantially free of unsaturated lactones. The claims do not specify a use; thus, the claims read on administering the extract to treat any possible disorder that can be treated topically. However, applicant's specification only teach effective dosages to use in treating inflammation. The specification does not teach how to successfully use the claimed extract to treat anything else. It is well known in the art that the potential for successfully treating conditions and disorders is unpredictable especially when there is no disclosure of effective dosages to use for treating disorders. Thus, since applicant's specification only teaches how to use the claimed extract to treat inflammation, the claims are not considered to be enabled for treating anything other than inflammation.

Double Patenting

5. Claims 11-40 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-20 of U.S. Patent No. 6,410,062 for the reasons set forth in the previous Office action.

In response to this rejection, applicant states that a terminal disclaimer will be filed when allowable subject matter is indicated. Thus, at this time, this rejection is still considered valid.

6. No claims are allowed
